

Festival for Public Housing Tenants

– a day of music, debate, laughter, play, and community in the heart of Nørrebro

On Sunday, the 28th of September, Nørrebrohallen will be transformed into a gathering place for everyone who loves – or is curious about – life in public housing. Look forward to political talks, sharp debates, music, workshops, stand-up comedy, and a range of activities for children and young people, from sword fighting and drawing workshops to basketball, football, and pony riding.

At the center of it all, you can visit an exhibition where the story of public housing is interwoven with residents' own photos, memories, and everyday stories.

The festival is for and about public housing tenants – but everyone is welcome!

We celebrate public housing life with stories, smiles, togetherness, and maybe even a little fighting spirit. And while the adults talk, the kids can dive into play, sports, and adventures with local associations.

The festival is a collaboration between LLOH, Almen Modstand, Kooperativt København, and the residents' boards of Mjølnerparken and Blågården. It is supported by Nørrebropuljen, Styrkefonden and Nordea-fonden. The children's youth activities are organized by Rollespilsfabrikken, Stevnsgade Basket, and Nørrebro United.

Look forward to political conversations, sharp debates, music, workshops, stand-up comedy, and a range of activities for children and young people — from sword fighting and drawing workshops to basketball, football, and pony riding.

♥ Want to be part of the exhibition?

We're collecting photos, short stories, old posters, and personal anecdotes from life in public housing – everything that shows the community and everyday life.

It could be anything from a photo of your courtyard to a short story about a memorable residents' decision.

Send your contribution to rla@lloh.dk no later than September 10 – and you'll also be entered into a draw to win an activity hamper for next summer's party.
